UGEOVERSIGT (resumé)

Kosóva: Martti Ahtisaari er pt i Nord-Kosovo. UNMIK bringer billeder. Serbiske Beta skriver om forhandlingerne: PRISTINA, Aug. 23 (Beta) - The Aug. 23 meetings between the U.N. special envoy for the Kosovo status talks, Martti Ahtisaari, and the Pristina team, the Pristina media report, did not bring the stands on the decentralization issue any closer.

Episode i Decani. KIM (Serbisk Ortodoks Nyhedstjeneste) skriver: Serb man beaten up in downtown Decani.

Albanien: Præsident Moisiu har været i Gjirokastra. Præsidentkontoret har udsendt flg.: President Moisiu appealed for the preservation and promotion of the values of our cultural heritage. Links til UNESCO-sider om Gjirokastra.

Koço Danaj-affæren. PM Berisha's kontor er rykket ud i anledning af nogle udtalelser af Vuk Draskovic. Prime Minister's Spokesperson has made the following clarification with regard to a statement made today by Serbia's Minister of Foreign Affairs Vuk Draskovic referring to an article authored by Mr. Koço Danaj. I would like to clarify that Mr. Koço Danaj is not an advisor to Prime Minister Berisha, and nor has he been an advisor when Mr. Berisha was serving as President of the country. Furthermore, Mr. Danaj has never served in any capacity in any of the administrations led by Mr. Berisha. I would like to express the regret that Mr. Draskovic rushed into hastily statements before checking these facts.

Koço Danaj (f. 1951) synes at være dr. i politologi. Han har været rådgiver for de daværende ministre Fatos Nano, Ilir Meta og Pandeli Majko (perioden 1999-2002); Web-site: <http://digilander.libero.it/danaj/> (web-sitet ser ud til ikke at være ajourført siden 2002). Han har skrevet artikler og bøger. Det omdiskuterede interview stod i »Epoka e re«, Prishtina, hvis web-site ikke fungerer pt. Danaj's tanke med interviewet var muligvis at han ville advare den nye Makedonske Regering om hvad der kunne ske, hvis man trådte de Makedonske Albanere over tærne.

Albania - 1 euro-initiativet. Engelsk udgave. Today, we are announcing our government's new initiative: "Albania 1 euro". During our electoral campaign, we established that making Albania the most attractive place for foreign investors would be a major goal. We reaffirm that this objective is crucial for our country. Transforming Albania into an appealing place for investors is a very difficult challenge, but not an impossible mission. We can only make it happen by thinking the unthinkable and imagining the unimaginable. This is the condition. We have to improve on other countries' practices, otherwise why should we be more appealing than others?

OSCE har haft foreløbige drøftelser med hhv Regeringspartierne og Oppositionen. Man arbejder på at parterne kan mødes med hinanden og drøfte de udestående problemer (bl.a. vedr. det forestående lokalvalg), i stedet for at Oppostionen søger at gennemføre demonstrationer landet over. Ifølge Makfax har Pandeli Majko (Generalsekretær for Socialisterne) bedt OSCE om at mægle. Kan man ikke nå en acceptabel løsning, kan det føre til - siger Partiformand Edi Rama - at Socialisterne næste år vil boykotte valget af ny Præsident efter Alfred Moisiu. Rama opfordrer til at PM Berisha træder tilbage; han ser ham som en Albansk 'Fidel Castro'.

Handelsbalancen. Albaniens Statistik har offentliggjort materiale om situationen i Maj 2006. Underskuddet er højere i de 5 første måneder af 2006 ift tilsvarende i 2005; det er især importen (af bl.a. elektricitet?) der er øget.

Etablering af nye supermarkeder. EBRD yder lån til Albanske Euromax.

Protest mod manglen på vand. Mjaft-bevægelsen (Mjaft = Nu kan det være nok) skriver herom.

Biler. Omsætning af sorte og hvide biler. Der er noget om snakken, men hvor meget? »Gazeta Sot« har tre 'historier'.

[060825] Dagens Morgenavisen Jyllands-Posten har en artikel af Per Nyholm (artiklen er at finde i sektionen "Kulturweekend" s. 15). Han har besøgt Qemal Minxhozi i Burrel. Nyholm trækker linien tilbage til Edith Durham's tid - og fortæller om en selvoplevet hændelse i 1990'erne.

Ismail Kadaré. I # 312 nævnede jeg en artikel jeg har på bedding om Ismail Kadaré: Artiklen - som findes på: <http://bjoerna.net/Kadare/2006.htm> - er blevet justeret en smule. Fx har jeg på forslag af en læser ændret omtalen af Kadaré's fødeby: Gjirokastra. Nu står der: Ismail Kadaré blev født 28. Januar 1936 i Gjirokastra i det sydlige Albanien, hvor de kulturelle og religiøse forhold er præget af nærheten til Grækenland, og hvor også Enver Hoxha var født i stedet for det noget bombastiske og ikke helt korrekte: Ismail Kadaré blev født i Gjirokastra i det sydlige og Græsk-orienterede Albanien 28. Januar 1936. - - - Se andetsteds i # 313 om Præsident Moisu's nylige besøg og om materiale fra UNESCO. - - - Forleden genfandt jeg i mine bunker en stak albanske tidsskrifter fra midten af 1970'erne og frem til omkring 1990, heriblandt forskellige artikler af Kadaré og af hans farfatterkollega Dritëro Agolli. Artiklerne vil blive lagt på nettet ud på efteråret, foreløbig har jeg tilføjet to af Kadaré's, én fra 1988 (om Ramiz Alia og Enver Hoxha) og én fra 1990 (om socialistisk digtning: Our Time and Our Literature).

Makedonien: DUI der ledes af Ali Ahmeti vil gennemføre en protest Fredag mod den nye Regering, men vil ikke boykotte Parlamentet.

Arben Xhaferi [Arben Dzaferi] vil gradvis trække sig ud af politik pga langvarig sygdom (Parkinsons?).

Grækenland: Skyderi, anholdelse og sigtelse af Albaner. Kathimerini skriver: Athens police yesterday charged a 23-year-old Albanian man in connection with a taverna shooting in the district of Polygono early this month. The unnamed 23-year-old allegedly fired several times at a fellow Albanian, aged 20, on the afternoon of August 3 but failed to hit him, officers said. According to police, the 23-year-old has a longstanding dispute with the younger man and has attacked him twice before - once with a knife and once with a gun - both times without success.

Danmark: Hjemsendelse fra Danmark til Kosóva: UNMIK accepterer nu at modtage asylansøgere fra Danmark, der er under traumebehandling og som ikke har opnået asyl. 24 er blevet hjemsendt (ifølge Berlingske Tidende) og flere vil følge.

DIIS indbyder til foredrag om danske styrker i Kosovo (Afghanistan og Irak). Hvor stor en forskel gør de danske styrker? Hvordan klarer de danske soldater sig sammenlignet med blandt andet tyske soldater?

Kosovo's / Kosóva's fremtid. Forhandlingerne: Martti Ahtisaari er pt i Nord-Kosovo. UNMIK bringer flg. billeder [kan forstørres ved at klikke på dem]:

Serbiske Beta skriver om forhandlingerne:

AHTISAARI, PRISTINA TEAM MAKE NO PROGRESS

PRISTINA, Aug. 23 (Beta) - The Aug. 23 meetings between the U.N. special envoy for the Kosovo status talks, Martti Ahtisaari, and the Pristina team, the Pristina media report, did not bring the stands on the decentralization issue any closer.

The media based its reports on the fact that after meeting with Ahtisaari, the Pristina negotiating team held a special session and scheduled a new one for 4 p.m. on Aug. 24.

On Aug. 23, Ahtisaari also met with the Kosovo president and premier, Fatmir Sejdiu and Agim Ceku, respectively, from whom, it was announced, the special envoy was to seek more flexibility in the decentralization talks.

Ahtisaari also met with the head of the Serb Ticket for Kosovo and Metohija, Oliver Ivanovic, who requested the formation of two more Serb municipalities Priluzje, in the municipality of Vucitn, and a special municipality within the existing Lipljan municipality.

After meeting with Ahtisaari, Sejdiu said the Kosovo team strongly opposes increasing the number of Serb municipalities, but added that the team could discuss expanding the territory of the proposed municipalities.

According to well-informed media, the special session of the Pristina team examined Ahtisaari's proposals referring to the number of municipalities and their authorities, certain minority rights, and also cultural heritage.

The same media reported that the "obstacle" in the talks between Ahtisaari and Pristina is not only the number of Serb municipalities. "Especially difficult are the issues relating to the competences the municipalities should have, including education, healthcare, social security, the appointment of the chiefs of police and the judiciary, and the proposal that the central authority in Pristina cannot alter municipal decisions, which means that the municipal authorities are equated with the central Kosovo authorities," the media in Pristina reported.

Ahtisaari will stay in Kosovo until Aug. 25.

Episode i Decani. KIM (Serbisk Ortodoks Nyhedstjeneste) skriver:

Serb man beaten up in downtown Decani

KIM Info Service Decani, August 22, 2006

A Serb man named Vuko Danilovic (age 55), who was taking part in a "multiethnic camp" program with a group of five Serb children, was beaten up yesterday in downtown Decani. The "multiethnic camp" which began on August 21 brought together 30 Serb, Albanian and Roma children and was organized for the purpose of enhancing cooperation among communities on the territory of the municipality of Decani. Danilovic, a teacher in Decani before the war, came with a group of Serb children from Berane (Montenegro), where most Serb refugees from the Decani area have been living for the past seven years.

"In the morning we visited the municipal building where we were very courteously received by the mayor, Nazmi Selmanaj. After that we went to the main town square, where we bought ice cream for the children. A number of people approached me to say hello and shake hands because I had quite a few Albanian friends before the war. Everything seemed peaceful and ordinary; there were quite a few people in the streets. Suddenly, a young man approached me and, while swearing at me, began to hit me with his fists in the head and the stomach. As I attempted to defend myself another young Albanian approached and likewise began to beat me. I fell to the ground from the force of the blows. By the time my colleagues from the group ran to my aid the attackers had disappeared. After receiving medical attention I filed a report with the (Kosovo Police Service)," said Vuko Danilovic, who visited Visoki Decani Monastery this afternoon with the children from the "multiethnic camp".

Because of the shock they experienced the Serb members of the "multiethnic camp" left for Montenegro this evening, where Danilovic will undergo a thorough physical since he has a bad headache and does not hear anything with his right ear.

The incident in downtown Decani demonstrates that necessary conditions for free movement of the Serb population in this part of Metohija still do not exist..

Udvikling af demokratiet. OSCE har netop udsendt denne feature:

Feature: Roundtable on drafting new constitution helps promote democratic values in Kosovo

No matter what the outcome of the ongoing talks on the final status of Kosovo, its interim constitution - the United Nations Constitutional Framework for Provisional Self-Government of 2001 - will expire.

When that time comes, Kosovo's leaders need to be ready and able to contribute to the process of drafting a new constitution that will enshrine strong democratic institutions and protect human rights.

To help meet the challenges ahead, the OSCE Mission in Kosovo organized a Parliamentary and Expert Roundtable on Constitutional Issues, which was held in Skopje in the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, from 20 to 22 July this year.

Representatives from all Kosovo's communities, the provisional government, the Kosovo Assembly and various regional and international constitutional experts gathered in Skopje to share their ideas.

Addressing the opening session, the Head of Mission, Ambassador Werner Wnendt, told the participants: "The OSCE is organizing this event as part of its ongoing support to Kosovo's institutions. Its aim is to raise your skills, your professionalism and your knowledge.

"Based on good practices elsewhere in the world and on input from high-level experts, you will develop a good insight into the constitutional process."

Preparing for the future

Ambassador Wnendt also pointed out that the conference was not intended in any way to influence the outcome of the status talks, but rather to prepare Kosovo's communities for their aftermath.

The participants discussed core constitutional concepts such as human rights protection, power-sharing systems, implementation of the constitution, devolution of powers and institutions.

"I'm especially interested in institutions, because the goal of myself and my colleagues is a fully functioning and effective government," said Gjylnaze Syla, an MP for the Alliance for the Future of Kosovo (AAK).

"The process of drafting the constitution is as important as its content. Having a roundtable opens the door for what should be the process of drafting the constitution."

Open exchange of ideas

The conference participants also praised the design of the roundtable as not only providing excellent practise in the drafting process, but also enabling an open exchange of concepts and approaches.

"Training can sometimes be a one-way process, but this format seeks the views and input of all participants so that the roundtable can approach tough issues," said constitutional expert Fredrick Lorenz of the Public International Law and Policy Group (PILPG), which provides free legal assistance to countries or regions involved in conflict.

Constitutional handbook

Experts from Europe and the United States worked with the OSCE in facilitating discussions and writing the conference's post-conflict constitutional handbook.

The 116-page handbook brings together comparative analyses of over 150 constitutions into nine thematic chapters ranging from preamble provisions to protecting minority rights. The chapters weigh the pros and cons of different amendment procedures, legislative, executive and judicial structures, electoral systems and even provide sample language to help ensure a thorough and sustainable draft is developed.

Copies of the handbook in Albanian, Serbian and English were given to the 65 roundtable participants.

Matching theory and practice

Still, nobody is under any illusion that even a perfectly-crafted constitution will solve Kosovo's problems. Throughout history, matching theory and practice has proven to be a difficult task.

"You can't look at a document in isolation," said PILPG's Lorenz. "It still needs the support of the public, and it needs the support of officials and the government to implement it."

But through the exchange of ideas and the provision of tools, skills and knowledge by the OSCE and others, Kosovo is now gaining the means to create and sustain a more democratic society.

ØST KOSÓVA / PRESEVO-DALEN / SYD-SERBIEN

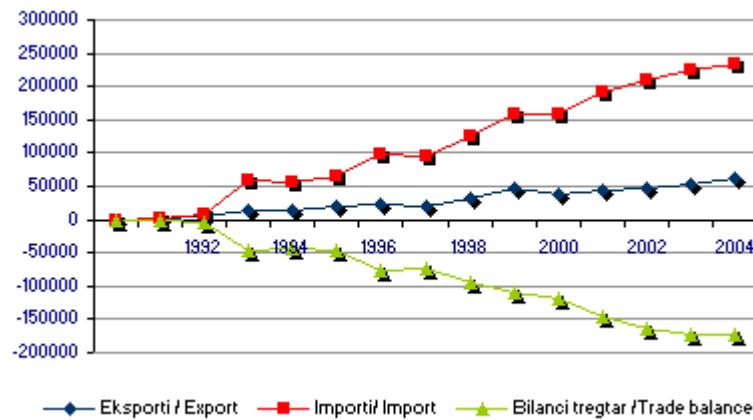

For nemheds skyld bruges betegnelsen Øst Kosóva / Presevo-dalen om det omstridte område med byerne: Presheva, Medvegja og Bujanoci (Albansk stavemåde). Ca. 75 % af befolkningen skønnes at være etniske Albanere - måske omkring 70.000. En modstandsgruppe har tidligere været i funktion, men synes nu at være »lukket ned«. Gruppen kaldtes i forkortet form UCPMB (som står for noget i retning af: Ushtria Clirimtare e Presheva, Medvegja dhe Bujanoci; på Engelsk: Liberation Army of Presheva, Medvegja and Bujanoci). Gruppen sagde at den intet havde at gøre med Kosova's UCK, og at den var en lokal gruppe.

President Moisiu appealed for the preservation and promotion of the values of our cultural heritage.

August 21, 2006

The President of the Republic, Alfred Moisiu held today a visit in Gjirokastra to get to know up close the situation and to discuss some of the most fundamental issues regarding the preservation and promotion of monumental values of the museum city, which ever since July 2005 has been inscribed in "The UNESCO World Heritage" List.

During this visit the Head of state was accompanied by the Deputy Minister of tourism, Culture, Youth and Sports, Suzana Turku, the Deputy minister of Education and Science, Adriana Gjonaj, the Director of Monuments of Culture, Apollon Baçe, the Head of the District, Resul Llogo, the Mayor Flamur Bime, the Prefect Spiro Ksera and other authorities of local government with whom President Moisiu held a business meeting in the premises of the Municipality of the city.

In his address on this occasion, President Moisiu while pointing out the unique museum values of Gjirokastra, stressed that we must think and act attentively in the field of culture and our national assets because only this way, through their preservation and promotion, Albania can become a more attractive country for Western tourism. In this context, Mr. Moisiu stressed the need for long-term plans and projects, which will have an impact on the enhancement of our country's image as one of the most ancient in Europe.

President Moisiu stated that we have old cultural monuments that present to all a particular interest and that the care for them must be continuous, and what is most important, be free of political connotations, because the preservation of this common cultural asset is a contribution for the future of Albania and our children. At the same time, the Head of state pointed out the significance of establishing the funds in this aspect by the Ministry of Tourism, Culture, Youth and Sports.

On his part, the Mayor of Gjirokastra presented the dynamic of developments in the city towards the preservation of cultural heritage. There were emphasized the investments and the work carried out to re-construct the cultural monuments, and also some problems met during the facing of the main challenges that foresees the accession of the city of Gjirokastra in the UNESCO list. Mr. Bimo discussed in an interesting way the issue of founding the economic faculty which according to him will influence the revival of the cultural life in this city.

Other participants in this meeting pointed out some of the actions taken by the government to preserve and promote the cultural values and expressed their full commitment and support for the revival of the museum city.

In conclusion of his visit in Gjirokastra, President Moisiu took a walk in the city and greeted wholeheartedly with the local inhabitants and got to know in the field about some of the most concerning issues. The Head of state paid a special visit to the industrial wood processing factory "Feruni 2."

The Head of state praised the importance to enable the necessary conditions for the preservation of these historical and cultural sites that demonstrate the ancient Albanian civilization and the co-existence of cultures in our country dating back in early times.

During this visit Mr. Moisiu was accompanied by the Mayor of Saranda, Edmond Gjoka and also by specialists of monuments of culture and archeology of this city.

BALKANS: OFFICIAL CALLS FOR A 'NATURAL ALBANIA' AKI ^ | August 22, 2006

Posted on 08/22/2006 10:56:16 AM PDT by joan

Tirana, 22 August (AKI) - Albanians living in the Balkan region should unite and be integrated into a "natural Albania" by 2013, a senior Albanian official said on Tuesday. Neighbouring Macedonia, with a 25 percent Albanian population, is likely to be partitioned first, if its authorities fail to honour the five-year-old Ohrid peace agreement - which gave Albanians more autonomy and increased their political representation - Koco Danaj, political adviser to Albania's prime minister, Sali Berisha, told Pristina-based Albanian language daily Epoka e Re.

"In politics it's easier to face the painful truth, than the painful lies," said Danaj. "Therefore, I emphasise again that disrespect of the Ohrid agreement would mean partitioning of Macedonia," he added.

Danaj said the greatest threat to the Ohrid agreement - which in 2001 ended ethnic Albanian rebellion in Macedonia - to power of the nationalist VMRO-DPMNE, the Macedonian political party that won the 5 July general election.

VMRO-DPMNE leader, Nikola Gruevski is expected this week to form a coalition government with the Democratic Party of Albanians, triggering protests from the biggest ethnic Albanian party, the Democratic Union for Integration, which also wants to participate in the government.

With Serbia's southern Kosovo province seeming to be moving towards independence, Danaj said that ethnic Albanians in Macedonia and Montenegro should also have the right to choose with whom to live. Instead of having Albanians participate in those countries' governments, it would be more natural that they had one government in the Albanian capital, Tirana, Danaj said.

After Montenegro, with population of 620,000, voted for independence and separation from Serbia at a referendum on 21 May, 500,000 ethnic Albanians in Macedonia should have the same right, Danaj said. Neither Serbia, nor Macedonia and Montenegro were "natural creations," Danaj pointed out.

Giving apparent credence to the fears of Serb and other Slav politicians in the Balkan countries that the creation of a Greater Albania is the main threat to the region, Danaj said all Albanians will be united "in natural Albania" by 2013.

Prime Minister Speech at the Council of Ministers Meeting Announcing "Albania 1 Euro" Initiative

Today, we are announcing our government's new initiative: "Albania 1 euro". During our electoral campaign, we established that making Albania the most attractive place for foreign investors would be a major goal. We reaffirm that this objective is crucial for our country.

Transforming Albania into an appealing place for investors is a very difficult challenge, but not an impossible mission. We can only make it happen by thinking the unthinkable and imagining the unimaginable. This is the condition. We have to improve on other countries' practices, otherwise why should we be more appealing than others?

Some of the conditions that drive us into this undertaking are fundamental, as are also the circumstances that urge for this initiative. Albania will be attractive only when it becomes the easiest and the cheapest at the same time. We must not delude ourselves. No other nation or country has a more desperate need for investments than Albania. If we look back at our modern history, we see that Albanians have suffered more illnesses, sufferings, deaths and immigration from poverty and misery than from wars. The harshest enemy to their identity have been misery and poverty.

Today, poverty sirens are sounding all over the country. More than any other nation, Albanians have lived in long era of poverty and misery. Attempts after the declaration of independence to build a system based on the values of free initiative were interrupted by the most inhuman and most totalitarian dictatorship Europe has known after the Second World War. This dictatorship turned more than 80 percent of Albanian citizens working in factories, farms and agricultural cooperatives, into the most miserable slaves and labourers of modern European and world history.

This dictatorship built three times more military bunkers than apartments at the same cost. It built hundreds of kilometres of tunnels but not a single kilometre of highway.

After the dictatorship, we went for four years investing in the system of values of freedom, but they were interrupted after the '97 riots. This rebellion substituted the system of values with a kleptocratic system. Albanians were thus once again a nation in misery, where billions were ripped from them in public property, taxes, and procurement money, which went in the private pockets of government officials.

If you look at the last World Bank corruption report for the years 2002-2005, you will see that due to these officials Albania topped the list for "capture" and corruption in the judiciary and customs. Referring to the latest reports on kleptocracy published by the State Department and the World Bank for 2004, we see that Albania is penalized by corruption more than any African country and the highest cost per capita from corruption than any other country. Such kleptocracy condemned the country to sink in deep misery.

Such reality makes it imperative our endeavour to take every effort to transform Albania in the cheapest and best country for investing. We have to turn into reality the slogan "Albania the most attractive place for foreign investments". This is our challenge. This is the only way we can develop in our poor country the EU standards and achieve the European integration -

Albania's dream project of this century. This is the only way we can keep our energies and resources in the country, rather than letting them migrate for building other countries roads, farms and factories.

All ministers will review all their policies in the view "Albania, 1 euro" initiative. Of course, we are talking about the public property here. Private property is governed by free market rules and no other rule. The Ministry of Economy has been assigned the task of establishing the necessary criteria for adopting the initiative based on the investment, production and number of employers.

All the Ministers are encouraged to bring their respective proposals which, complimenting the fiscal revolution that has successfully started, will strengthen our efforts to transform Albania in the cheapest and the best country for both foreign and domestic investors.

We will be offering investors grounds with 1 euro. We will offer them training for their employers for 1 euro. We will offer them technological water for 1 euro. We will offer registration for their businesses for 1 euro. We will offer them entry to Albania for 1 euro.

I would like to once again emphasise that our challenging needs optimism and belief, it requires that we think the unthinkable, and imagine the unimaginable. But, I assure you that the great winners will be Albanian citizens.

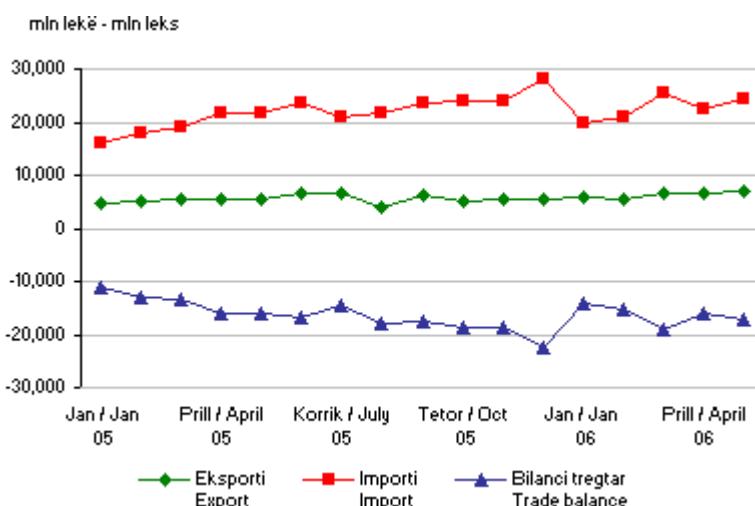

The policies we have introduced so far have started to bear fruits. I have the pleasure to inform you that there is an increasing interest for investments, many of which are in the preparation phase. The interest will continue to increase, provided that we enforce the law.

"Albania, 1 euro" initiative will further boost the interest for investing in Albania. In addition, we will direct our diplomatic service towards efforts to attract investments. Our diplomats will be briefed and trained for this task.

Our challenge is enormous, but it equally appealing. I am very confident that we will succeed. We will rise to the challenge, thus rendering a great service to our country, rendering Albanians the opportunity to overcome their harshest enemies: the poverty and misery.

OSCE har haft foreløbige drøftelser med hhv Regeringspartierne og Oppositionen. Man arbejder på at parterne kan mødes med hinanden og drøfte de udestående problemer (bl.a. vedr. det forestående lokalvalg), i stedet for at Oppostionen søger at gennemføre demonstrationer landet over. Ifølge Makfax har Pandeli Majko (Generalsekretær for Socialisterne) bedt OSCE om at mægle. Kan man ikke nå en acceptabel løsning, kan det føre til - siger Partiformand Edi Rama - at Socialisterne næste år vil boykotte valget af ny Præsident efter Alfred Moisiu. Rama opfordrer til at PM Berisha træder tilbage; han ser ham som en Albansk 'Fidel Castro'.

Handelsbalancen. Albaniens Statistik har offentliggjort materiale om situationen i Maj 2006. Underskuddet er højere i de 5 første måneder af 2006 ift tilsvarende i 2005; det er især importen (af bl.a. elektricitet?) der er øget:

During May of 2006 were exported 6997 mln leks commodities, increasing 27.3% compared with May of 2005 and increasing 8.3% compared with the April of 2006.

There were imported 24349 mln leks commodities increasing 12.9% compared with respectively month of the previous year and increasing 7.7% compared with April of 2006.

This month the trade deficit is 17352 mln leks signing an increase of 7.5% compared with April of 2006 and signing an increase of 8% compared with May of 2005.

Trade with the EU countries is 70.6%. The main trade partners remain Italy and Greece. With Italy the export is 73.6% and the import 31.9%, while with Greece the export is 11.7% and the import 16.8%.

Some of the partners countries with which our export and import is increased are: in exports, Great Britain, Croatia, Greece, Italy, etc and in imports, Austria, Greece, Italy, Great Britain, etc.

The comparison with the previous month of some group commodities shows that:

Export of group “Food, beverages, tobacco”, export increased 54.7%, “Construction materials and metals” increased 24.4%, “Textile and footwear” increased 14%, etc. While export of group “Minerals, fuels, electricity” decreased 52.6%, “Machinery, equipment and spare parts” decreased 24.9%, etc.

Etablering af nye supermarkeder. EBRD yder lån til Albanske Euromax

4 August 2006

EBRD loan supports Albanian retailer Euromax

Local producers to benefit from company's expansion

Albanian consumers are expected to gain more access to a wide variety of good quality food products at competitive prices following a euro8 million loan by the EBRD to Euromax Sh.p.k. The loan will shortly be followed by an equity investment. The combined financing package will help the company strengthen its financial resources and build five new large supermarkets in Albania's main cities.

Gilles Mettetal, EBRD Director for Agribusiness, said the financing will not only benefit local consumers but also producers by offering reliable market outlets to farmers and local agri-processing enterprises. Additionally, the strengthening of the company will support the community through both employment opportunities and by selling locally produced goods.

After opening the first Euromax hypermarket in 2005 in Qendra Tregtare Univers near Tirana, the company intends to replicate its success in other Albanian cities. The company plans to build three supermarkets in Tirana and is considering the construction of further outlets in Shkodra, Vlora, Korca and Fieri in 2007, thus creating the first supermarket chain in the country.

Murat Yildiran, Head of the EBRD Office in Albania, said Euromax's expansion plans were a sign of up and coming Albanian entrepreneurial companies developing and successfully combining international industry best practice with local market expertise.

Samir Mane, the owner of Euromax, said the EBRD financing comes at a time when the company is aiming to become market leader in the Albanian retail sector. This long term financing is very important support for our expansion plans. To become a key player in this sector on the local market we will strive to keep our strong customer service focus and react to market changes, Mr Mane said.

EBRD is the largest single investor in Albania, having committed more than euro314.7 million in 24 projects. In the agribusiness sector the Bank has invested more than euro 4.2 billion in 293 projects across its countries of operations. EBRD views retail commerce as vital to a successful market economy and to this end plans to support more retail companies in south-eastern Europe.

Protest mod manglen på vand. Mjaft-bevægelsen (Mjaft = Nu kan det være nok) skriver:

Dear Citizens,

Via this e-mail we would like to inform you that on Monday (August 28) at 12.00 MJAJT Movement will conduct a protest in front of the Ministry of the Public Affairs, Transports and Telecommunications.

(We would also like to apologize for sending yesterday an email with some mistakes in information regarding the date of the protest).

The reasons why we decided to undertake such a public initiative, as you all are experiencing, are innumerable.

80% of the Albanian households are facing shortages of water supply (according to the Report of the World Bank "Albania- Water supply and Sanitation Sector Strategy, Tirana 2003").

Hundreds of young and old people are referred to the health care centers as a result of the consumption of not chlorinated drinking water, (according to official information sources from the Universal Health Care Centre "Mother Tereza" July-August 2006).

The reason: The drinking water and the sewage system in Albania is totally worn out, defective and not at all effective (World Bank, Albania – Water Supply and sanitation Sector Strategy, 2003).

This year the Albanian tourism was gravely affected by the shortages of drinking water supply (Top Channel, August 2006).

The institutions have totally failed to prevent the direct damage that is continuously done to the water supply system at national level. Moreover a lot more damage caused by the discriminate use of the natural water supply in the country is not prevented, on the contrary, it is stimulated. (Weekly Newspaper ABC, August 19, 2006, Editorial)

If all these problems were seriously analyzed then the solution to the problem would be found.

It is absurd the fact that although the water abundantly runs in the water pipes for 24 hours per day and the water consumption measures up to 500l/ capita per day compared to the 120l/capita in other European countries (according to the World Bank), the vast majority of the people lack drinking water.

The reason: The water pumped abusively by citizens who illegally get it out of the central tubes reduces the quantity of the drinking water in our houses.

The reason is obvious and the solution to the problem would be the implementation of the metering system accompanied by the water rate that would reflect the real cost of the consumption, yet no concrete steps!

Try to remember how many years have passed by...yet the situation has not been solved...

In the mean time, tend to listen to the promises made by the governors. Don't you think that their glossary comprises only demagogies, offensive and denigrating verbal attacks against particular individuals?

Have you ever heard the word 'water' among the tiring word phrases that they articulate in front of the TV cameras? Yes of course, but only when they promise the "earthly paradise" like this one:

"From Velipoja to Ksamil there will not have shortages of electric power during the tourists' season. The Ministry of the Public Affairs should urgently put into practice all the projects concerning the works on water supply system in the resorts from Velpoja to Ksamil including Pogradec and other resorts. The objective is: These areas should have running water for 24 hours per day by late 2006" (Sali Berisha, January 19, 2006).

The Ministry of the Public Affairs, Transports and the Telecommunications has not taken concrete measures yet in order to change this situation.

Thus, if you, too, feel offended and want to reacted, join us in the protest that will take place on Monday, August 28, at 12:0 in front of the comfort offices of the Ministry.

MJAFT MOVEMENT!

Balkansamarbejde. Den Albanske Vice-FM, Petrit Karabina, har holdt pressekonference.

Forsvarsministeriet skriver:

15 Gusht 2006

Deputy minister of Defense, Mr. Petrit Karabina, the Chair of SEDM-CC/PMSC, gave a press conference for representatives of the written and electronic media, at the Ministry of Defense. The journalists present at the conference were informed about the SEDM [South East Defense Ministerial] Process and the important role Albania is playing in its positive progress.

In the press release, deputy minister of Defense, Mr. Karabina concerning the participation of different countries in the South East Defense Ministerial stressed that: " 11 NATO member and non-member states : Albania, Bulgaria, Greece, Macedonia, Croatia, Slovenia, Turkey, Romania, Ukraine, Moldavia, including USA take part in this process, valued as one of the most dynamic and massive ones. Other countries, like Bosnia, Serbia, Montenegro and Georgia are on their way to membership in this process, as well."

Then, Mr. Karabina evidenced the positive steps the SEDM process has taken under Albania's leadership. Taking part for the first time of the Multinational Peacekeeping Force of South East Europe [SEEBRIG] in a peacekeeping mission in Afghanistan during the period of 06 February – 06 August 2006, after more than 10 years, was mentioned in this framework. Realization of this mission was carried out in close collaboration with all NATO member states, especially with the USA. The ceremony of the successful completion of the mission in Afghanistan was organized on 11 august in Constance, Romania where the Staff of SEEBRIG is actually situated.

"Our country's participation in this mission, as in the other peacekeeping missions in Iraq, Afghanistan and Bosnia-Herzegovina is evidence of the interoperability increase of AAF with NATO." Pointed out Mr. Karabina in his word.

Biler. Omsætning af sorte og hvide biler. Der er noget om snakken, men hvor meget? »Gazeta Sot« har tre 'historier':

Stolen cars block car dealers' market. In Albania, about 280 thousand cars in circulation, out of which 95 per cent result to be purchased in the black market and just five per cent through authorised car dealers. But lately, the number of cars purchased in the black market has sensibly decreased. According to sources from the customs, the number of cars from the black market has decreased by 40 per cent as compared to the same period of time of last year. Meanwhile, according to car traders of the black market, the rise of custom duties for imported cars has caused a sensible rise of cars price in this market.

Police Fails Against Car Traffic. Expensive cars are today a normal picture across Tirana streets, while shops of prestigious car companies like Volkswagen, Mercedes or BMW charge prices that are far from is called normal for Albanian families. But, how can be explained the fact that streets of the capital and other towns of Albania are filled with these expensive cars? The response is very easy. A cheap stolen car can be easily found in the black market, and furthermore, no one hassles you to drive around in the most possible normal way. The police have now come to terms with this reality and they can do nothing to stop the phenomenon of car trafficking from eastern European countries to Albania and further to other eastern countries.

The Police, Accomplice in Car Trafficking. By now it is common knowledge that a great number of stolen cars circulate in Tirana. The majority of them are latest editions and they circulate undisturbed by anybody. The stolen cars are all equipped with new number plates and with documents issued by Albanian police authorities. Most stolen cars, even when confiscated by the police, are released after two or three days equipped with all the necessary papers and then, nobody can say a word to those that own them. The situation is very worrying even in market terms.

Journalistuddannelse på Tirana Universitet. Udbredelse af studentmagasin. OSCE skriver:

Feature: Tirana student newspaper goes nationwide with support from OSCE Presence in Albania

Twenty-one-year-old Anisa Ymeri is in her third year at the University of Tirana's Department of Journalism. When they finish their studies, she and her fellow students will be looking for work as reporters in a tough job market.

Anisa, though, has a head start - she's already had four stories published in one of Albania's most respected national newspapers.

Anisa is one of 40 third-year journalism students at the University. The Department of Journalism publishes its own fortnightly newspaper, Reporteri, where the students have a chance to see their stories in print.

But thanks to financial support from the OSCE Presence in Albania, Reporteri is now more than just another student newspaper. Since March this year, it has been published as a fortnightly supplement to the Saturday edition of the popular national daily Korrieri.

Supporting practical initiatives

"Reporteri is at the moment the only outlet for the students of the journalism school," says Pascale Roussy, Head of the OSCE Presence's Human Dimension Department. "We have chosen to support this initiative as it is a unique opportunity for students to practice their skills and start working as professionals in the media market."

Elton Metaj, the Editor-in-Chief of Korrieri, points out that his paper has a slightly higher circulation on Saturdays when it comes out with Reporteri. "It's hard to say whether the increase is due to the insert or whether it's just because it's the weekend when people read more, but I'd like to think that it's because of Reporteri," he says.

"Working on Reporteri is a great chance for us to put into practice everything that we have learned in our first two years," adds student Suadela Balliu.

With a much wider circulation (7,000 copies) than previously, Reporteri has also changed its look and content to better meet the growing needs of Albania's competitive media market.

Awareness-raising tool

"The students can choose whatever story ideas they want for the next edition, which means that Reporteri is not just a platform where they can practice their skills, it's also a tool for them to raise awareness about certain social problems," says the paper's editor Zylyftar Bregu, who teaches in the Department.

The role of the teachers is outlined by the Head of the Department, Bashkim Gjergji. "They are not there to decide on the content of Reporteri, but to ensure that the stories meet the professional standards which they teach.

"One student wrote a story about corruption which was not accepted for publication, but only because the claims of both sides involved were not presented in a balanced manner. The majority of students write very responsibly now that their stories are read throughout the country."

Reporteri has come a long way since the first issue was published in 1993. Back then, it was a modest in-house platform for students to try their hand as first-time journalists. The Dutch organization Press Now and the US Embassy in Tirana both provided funding, but it was limited and the paper had an on/off existence.

Addressing essential needs

The move to bring Reporteri to a wider audience is just part of a larger project developed by the Presence in Albania aimed at addressing the essential needs of the Department and helping it improve the curriculum. As a result of recommendations drawn up by the OSCE, a long-term strategy has been developed, the ultimate goal of which is to achieve international accreditation for the Department.

But for students like Anisa, the benefits of working on the paper and having their stories published nationwide are immediate and practical.

"By developing my skills on Reporteri, I'll be better prepared to find a job when I finish my studies," she says. "With the media market getting more and more competitive each day, you need to be really skilful to make a difference in this profession rather than just doing a job."

Artiklen - som findes på: <http://bjoerna.net/Kadare/2006.htm> - er blevet justeret en smule. Fx har jeg på forslag af en læser ændret omtalen af Kadaré's fødeby: Gjirokastra. Nu står der: *Ismail Kadaré blev født 28. Januar 1936 i Gjirokastra i det sydlige Albanien, hvor de kulturelle og religiøse forhold er præget af nærheden til Grækenland, og hvor også Enver Hoxha var født i stedet for det noget bombastiske og ikke helt korrekte: Ismail Kadaré blev født i Gjirokastra i det sydlige og Græsk-orienterede Albanien 28. Statements by the U.S. House of Representatives Members John Duncan and Jerry Costello

I midten PM Sali Berisha, lidt tv: US Ambassadør Marcie Ries. Rep. Duncan og Rep. Costello flankerer PM Berisha.

Rep. Duncan: I am Congressman John Duncan from Tennessee. I have the privilege of being the Chairman of this delegation. We have come here to Albania to express our desire that we have closer ties both of friendship and commerce in the years ahead. And we came here to learn more about Albania and what the needs are of your country. We are proud that the United States is doing more to help the people of Albania, than perhaps any other country in the world. And all of us in our delegation have seen what we believe are tremendous opportunities for the future here.

You have great beauty in this nation as well as tremendous natural resources. And we believe that with the proper leadership and with the institution of free market reforms and removal of corruption so that you have a strong legal system especially for contracts and ownership of property that there can be great investments coming into this country from businesses in the United States of America. It has been a tremendous honor to be hosted by your wonderful prime minister and by your Speaker of Parliament and other members of your government.

This is a 12-member delegation from the United States of America. This is the largest delegation ever to tour Europe. Chairing this delegation with me is Congressman Jerry Costello from Illinois. And I would like Congressman Costello to say a few words at this time.

Rep. Costello: Congressman Duncan, thank you very much. As Chairman Duncan stated, this is a 12-member delegation of the U.S. House of Representatives. It is a bi-partisan delegation made up of five Republicans and seven Democrats. While we do not always agree on every issue, we know that it's important for democracy to flourish that we work together and we sit down and try and negotiate and reason on issues important not only to the United States, but to the world.

We are very impressed with the improvements that have already been made and the path that has been charted for improvement not only in infrastructure, but to improve the quality of life for the people in this great country. We look forward to continuing to have a close working relationship with the Prime Minister and your government for many years to come.

Amerikansk besøg i Albanien. Den Amerikanske Ambassade har udsendt flg.:

Statements by the U.S. House of Representatives Members John Duncan and Jerry Costello

I midten PM Sali Berisha, lidt tv: US Ambasadør Marcie Ries. Rep. Duncan og Rep. Costello flankerer PM Berisha.

Rep. Duncan: I am Congressman John Duncan from Tennessee. I have the privilege of being the Chairman of this delegation. We have come here to Albania to express our desire that we have closer ties both of friendship and commerce in the years ahead. And we came here to learn more about Albania and what the needs are of your country. We are proud that the United States is doing more to help the people of Albania, than perhaps any other country in the world. And all of us in our delegation have seen what we believe are tremendous opportunities for the future here.

You have great beauty in this nation as well as tremendous natural resources. And we believe that with the proper leadership and with the institution of free market reforms and removal of corruption so that you have a strong legal system especially for contracts and ownership of property that there can be great investments coming into this country from businesses in the United States of America. It has been a tremendous honor to be hosted by your wonderful prime minister and by your Speaker of Parliament and other members of your government.

This is a 12-member delegation from the United States of America. This is the largest delegation ever to tour Europe. Chairing this delegation with me is Congressman Jerry Costello from Illinois. And I would like Congressman Costello to say a few words at this time.

Rep. Costello: Congressman Duncan, thank you very much. As Chairman Duncan stated, this is a 12-member delegation of the U.S. House of Representatives. It is a bi-partisan delegation made up of five Republicans and seven Democrats. While we do not always agree on every issue, we know that it's important for democracy to flourish that we work together and we sit down and try and negotiate and reason on issues important not only to the United States, but to the world.

We are very impressed with the improvements that have already been made and the path that has been charted for improvement not only in infrastructure, but to improve the quality of life for the people in this great country. We look forward to continuing to have a close working relationship with the Prime Minister and your government for many years to come.

DIIS indbyder til foredrag om danske styrker i Kosovo (Afghanistan og Irak). Hvor stor en forskel gør de danske styrker? Hvordan klarer de danske soldater sig sammenlignet med blandt andet tyske soldater? :

Forsker i trøjen - indblik i danske styrkeenheders dagligdag i Irak, Kosovo og Afghanistan
Torsdag, den 7. september 2006, 15.00-16.30, Dansk Institut for Internationale Studier
Auditoriet Strandgade 71, stuen, 1401 København

Seniorforsker Anja Dalgaard-Nielsen fra DIIS fortæller om sine oplevelser som medfølgende forsker ved danske styrkeenheder i Irak, Kosovo og Afghanistan i perioden februar til juni 2006. Feltstudiet fokuserede på danske styrkers tilgang til opgaver, der særligt i Irak og Afghanistan er rykket i centrum, nemlig den militære støtte til genopbygning i områder, hvor sikkerhedssituationen forhindrer civile aktører i at operere.

Anja Dalgaard-Nielsen vil blandt andet diskutere følgende spørgsmål: Hvor stor en forskel gør de danske styrker? Hvordan klarer de danske soldater sig sammenlignet med blandt andet tyske soldater?

Ved samme lejlighed vil hun præsentere sin nye bog om Tysklands militære rolle i internationale missioner fra Balkan til Afghanistan, Germany, Pacifism and Peace-enforcement, der netop er udkommet på Manchester University Press. Arrangementet afsluttes med en reception.

Foredraget vil foregå på dansk. Deltagelsen er gratis, men forudgående tilmelding er dog påkrævet via e-mail indeholdende navn, titel og organisation til event@diis.dk senest tirsdag den 5. september 2006 kl. 12.00. Afvent venligst bekræftelse på deltagelse fra DIIS.
